

Hemlock Woolly Adelgid Regulated Area for Hemlock Shipped to Wisconsin

Hemlock Woolly Adelgid is an invasive insect that has caused widespread hemlock mortality in 20 eastern states. Along the west coast it does not reach damaging levels on western hemlock, but could be introduced on nursery stock grown there. Wisconsin's exterior quarantine therefore restricts hemlock nursery stock from regulated areas. For more information see ATCP 21.16.

Bureau of Plant Industry
 Division of Agricultural Resource Management
 State of Wisconsin, Department of Agriculture,
 Trade and Consumer Protection
 Map Date: 3/10/2020

