FREE
840 OFFICIAL
RFID TAGS

A limited supply of Radio Frequency Identification (RFID) tags is available from the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection courtesy of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

ORDERING

- Order at DATCP's website
- White tags are available in multiples of 1,000. Producers with smaller herds can contact Paul Johann at paul.johann@wisconsin.gov.
- Your premises identification number (PIN) is required. If you do not know your PIN, contact the Wisconsin Livestock Identification Consortium at (888) 808-1910.
- Your premises identification number (PIN) is required. If you do not know your PIN, contact the Wisconsin Livestock Identification Consortium at (888) 808-1910.
- Shipping charges may apply.
- Although you can indicate a tag preference, you will be provided tags from Allflex, Datamars, or Y-Tex as available.
- Tags may also be purchased from approved tag manufacturers or their distributors. For a list of approved tag manufacturers see DATCP Home Official ID & Traceability

USING

- The free white button 840 official RFID tags are for use with cattle (including steers) and bison only.
- Tags are for use only in your own animals. They are not to be shared, sold or used at other farms.

TAGGERS & READERS

- Use a tagger from the same manufacturer as the tags.
- A limited number of Allflex and Datamars taggers are available from DATCP for first-time orders while supplies last. To request a tagger, contact Paul Johann at paul.johann@wisconsin.gov when you get your tags.
- Taggers may also be purchased directly from the manufacturer or their distributor.
- Readers can be purchased from manufacturers or animal health supply distributors.